A NEW NAME FOR POWDERLY.

SOCIALIST SCHILLING CALLS HIM THE CZAR OF THE KNIGHTS.

The General Assembly in Minneapolis Will Probably Wind Up Its Work To-Day-Mrs. Powderly Present in the Convention With a Picture of Her Husband-Powder ly's Friends Make Wordy War on Barry.

MINIMEAPOISS, Minn., Oct. 19.—The Knights of Labor General Assembly, which adourns to-day, has not been very benficial to the order. The compromise of the warring factions and the decisimportant questions has placed but a very thin covering over the bed of discord among the Knights. The Anti-Administration delegates are loud in expressing their dissatisfaction.

Joseph Labadie, of Detroit, said this morn-Ing that the session had been an injury to the order and that the real sentiments of the Knights had not been expressed officially. elean majority of the delegates, said he, were opposed to the hanging of the Beven condemned Chicago Anarchists, and yet as a body they were too cowardly to go on cord as disapproving their execution. Their course has been such as to breed able for the future.

George Schilling, the Chicago Socialist nd a delegate to the convention, was even re outspoken in his denunciation of administration faction and its head. The result of this convention," he "will be to make Powderly the Czar of the Knights' organization with all that the word implies. The Knights will have to do just as he says without regard to the condition of affairs or the opinions of men whose counsel in labor matters ought to be heeded. There is little doubt that the order will be weakened by the outcome of the present convention."

mr. Powderly has little to say, but regards the work of the convention as very satisfac-

The convention went into executive session at 9 a. M.

An important piece of legislation was brought about yesterday afternoon which will go far towards restoring peace between the Knights' organization and the trades unions and preventing the threatened revolt of the national trade assemblies. It will also tend strongly towards the upbuilding of the order from the great crafts which have hitherto held aloof from it on account of the centraliation of power in the hands of its general officers.

Radical changes were made in the new constitution, which will compel the Central Executive Board to issue charters to groups of local assemblies desired to form trade districts and assure to such local assemblies an easy release from the superior bodies to which they are attached.

These measures, contrary to the expecta-casy release from the superior bodies to which they are attached.

These measures, contrary to the expectations of the trade unionists, were passed without any great opposition from the administrationists, and the former are at a loss to account for it, except by the theory that the administrationists feared a revolt of the powerful trades districts from the order. However, the measures were successfully passed, and the result will be a big boom for the Knights.

In addition to this legislation a regular department of woman's work was officially established, to be presided over by Mrs. Leonard Barry, with headquarters to be located in Philadelphia.

General Secretary Litchman's proposition to amend the constitution which was reported this morning by the Committee on Law and designed to give him absente power to hire and discharge clerks in the general office was defeated. Another attempt to remove Messrs.

Barry and Bailey from the General Executive Board through a resolution introduced by Delegate Decker, of the Michigan State Assembly, also fell through.

About the only important question now remaining to be settled is the case of expelled carpetworkers, District Assembly No. 126, and this probably will be acted upon to-day. For the past two days the anti-administrationists have shown a much greater strength than before, and judging from the recorded votes of the past two days the anti-administrationists have shown a much greater strength than before, and judging from the recorded votes of the past two days the possible that the district may be reinstated if its appeal should be submitted to the convention for consideration.

A gift to Miss. Powderly. A GIFT TO MRS. POWDERLY.

There was a very pretty incident yesterday afternoon when Chairman McGaughey, of the Local Entertainment Committee, brought in a life-size and magnificently executed portrait of Mr. Powderly. He handed it to Mrs. Leonora Barry, general investigator of women's work, now a general officer, and she, in a beautiful little speech, presented the portrait to Mr. Powderly as a gift to his wife from the General Assembly, explaining that Mrs. Powderly was the first woman admitted to the order of the Knights.

The Assembly applauded enthusiastically. There was great enthusiasm. Mr. Powderly himself was so deeply moved that when he attempted to speak he was choked and blinded by tears. Then cries of "Litchman!" came from various parts of the hall, and Mr. Litchman responded ably. He paid a glowing eulogy to Mr. Powderly, and declared, almost in tears, that if Mr. Powderly's wife was the first woman in the order his own wife was the second.

BARRY AND BALLEY ATTACKED.

Towards the close of the day the administrationists, who since yesterday had not shown any inclination to attack Messrs. Barry and Bailey, set about using another plan to remove those officers from the General Executive Board. A country delegate, who had not been heard before to open his mouth during any of the sessions of the Convention, introduced a series of polished and elaborate resolutions urging the Convention to remove Messrs. Barry and Bailey. The resolutions were preceded by a long preamble containing many "whereases," but, briefly stated, the document set forth about this; "That in view of the fact that Messrs. Barry and Bailey had preferred most serious charges against brother members of the General Executive Board and failed to substantiate the same, and inasmuch as they had re-BARRY AND BAILEY ATTACKED.

cral Executive Board and failed to substantiate the same, and inasmuch as they had resused to tender their resignation as asked for by the General Assembly, and had thereby shown their contempt for the Knights' organization, the General Assembly do hereby declare their offices vacant."

The opposition delegates, who are ardent supporters of Messrs. Barry and Bailey, could scarcely contain their excitement and indignation during the reading of the resolutions, and as the reader finished the last words a great uproar ensued. Confusion reigned supreme for several minutes. Delegates all over the hall jumped to their feet and shouted to the General Master Workman for recognition. Finally John A. O'Neill, of District Assembly No. 169, Trenton, secured the floor, and in clear, unctions voice moved that the resolutions be tabled. His motion was seconded on all sides of the hall, and was carried through with a loud hurrah.

Only Himself to Blame. mas McKernan falled to-day to get $29,000 mages from the Manhattan Railway Company, damages from the Manhattan Rallway Company. He claimed that on Saturday, Sept. 20, 1882, when he attempted to purchase a ticket at the Fiftieth sireet station of the Nioth avenue elevated rall-road, it was refused, and he was thrown downstains by the ticket agent, receiving a compound fracture of the leg. He sued the company in the superior Court to Tecover $80,000 damages, but upon the trial of the uaue before Judge O'Gorman and a jury it was proved that he was intoxicated at the time and while going downstairs fell over the railing into the street. A verdict was given for the company.

GUARDING THE BRITANNIA.

Dennty Health Officer Smith Denies the There is Cholera on Board. The Quarantine officials to-day indignantly denied the assertions that cases of cholera have been discovered among the passengers on the French steamer Britannia, now detained at Quarantine for observation. Deputy Health Officer Smith, who was in charge of the Boarding Station when as EVENING WORLD reporter called at Quaran-ine this morning, said; "There is absolutely no foundation, as yet, for the reports that any of the Britanpassengers have the cholera, boy, displaying some evidence of the decease, was removed, but it is premature to say that he has cholera, for the Health Officer has not convinced himself that the lad is infected with the disease. This, as far as I know, is the only case of sickness that has been discovered aboard the ship, has been discovered aboard the ship, with the exception of the man who died of congestion of the lungs the day after the ship arrived. It has been insinuated that we are trying to keep information from the public about the real condition of affairs at Quarantine. This is absurd. When a ship is detained at Quarantine it is at once supposed that she has cholera aboard, but owing to the prevailence of this dreadful scourge in Southern Europe we are determined to exercise every precaution in preventing any ship from carrying it into New York or Brooklyn. Therefore we consider it our duty to detain all vessels until we are absolutely certain that the passengers are not infected with the scourge."

passengers are not infected with the scourge."

Larly this morning Health Officer Smith went down the bay to make his regular visit to the Britannia. Late last night, however, everything was quiet both at Hoffman and Swinburne Islands and also among the passengers of the Britannia. The latter is being closely guarded, and no communication is allowed with either the passengers or the vessel.

allowed with either the passengers or the vessel.

The Health Officer feels annoyed at the criticisms which have been made in various quarters on his permitting the Independent to come to this city and discharge her passengers. This ship, he asserts, in cleanliness and the general health of the passengers bore no comparison to that of the Britannia, which was found to be in a very dirty state. The Independent was thoroughly clean and has a physician in whom the Health Officer has entire confidence. He said that during the voyage every precaution was taken to prevent an outbreak of the cholera, and no sickness of any kind prevailed during the voyage.

Notwithstanding this, many assert that the prevailed during the voyage.

Notwithstanding this, many assert that the Health Officer should have kept the vessel in quarantine. Many of her passengers came from the region of Palermo, where the scourge is making havoc among its population, and they carried with them a lot of rubbish, which, when it came to Castle Garden, emitted sickening odors. This fact alone, argue some, should have made the Health Officer more cautious in allowing the ship with its load of passengers and dirty baggage to come to the city.

THEY QUARRELLED ABOUT BILLIARDS.

Story of a Witness to George Bangs's Si at Politician McWilliams.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] JACESONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 19.—There is a good deal of excitement here over the killing of William McWilliams by George Bangs, as telegraphed to THE EVENING WORLD yesterday. The men were unfriendly about a debt of over $1,000, growing out of a game of billiards. Samuel Houston, who owns the saloon where the shooting happened, gives these details:

"Bangs came into the saloon and said: I came up here to avoid meeting Col. MacWilliams, who is hunting for me to-night to kill me." A hack drove up soon after and two gentlemen get out. One of them, who had an umbrella, was talking to Bangs when Col. MacWilliams came along, with his revolver in his hand. Bangs cried out. 'Halti!'

"The word was scarcely uttered before Col. MacWilliams raised his revolver and fired. The shot passed close to Bangs's head. Bangs then pulled his pistol from his pocket and fired at MacWilliams, but the Colonel had thrown himself so that I would be right in his rear. Bangs then shot again three times. MacWilliams started to run, but soon fell down dead. Bangs gave himself up to the Sheriff."

Public sentiment sides with Bangs. Mc-Williams was one of the best-known politicians in the State. MacWilliams was Secretary of the Florida Senate in 1885, and was one of the best-known politicians in the State. day. The men were unfriendly about a debt of Engineer on the West Pennsylvania. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORKD.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 19.—The fast train West on the Pennsylvania Railroad was running at a very high rate of speed yesterday, when, at Lapp's Crossing, near Ronk's Station, about eight miles from here, it struck a covered wagon containing Mrs. Jacob Stoltzfus, of Leacock Township this county, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Barbara Stoltzfus, of Kansas, both middle-aged ladies. They were driving southward and stopped at the railroad to permit the passage of a freight train. The latter obscured the approach of the fast train, which struck the wagon and completely demolished it. Mrs. Jacob Stoltzfus was thrown down an embankment and picked up dead, but Mrs. Barbara Stoltzfus lived a few minutes, although horribly mangled. The horse was carried nearly a hundred yards by the engine and was literally cut to pieces.

The engineer admits that he failed to pull the whistle, not having noticed the team until the engine was upon it. of Kansas, both middle-aged

OUTLAWS IN INDIAN TERRITORY.

They Rob, Burn and Attempt to Kill Women and Children.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD] St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 19.-The latest ad vices from the Indian Territory are to the effect that a terrible state of lawlessness is prevailing in the Cherokee Nation.

A few days ago, Bud Trainor, John Leech, Joe Miller and Bill Churl, outlaws, took Joe Miller and Bill Churl, outlaws, took possession of Mr. Duckworth's store, twenty-two miles from Tahlequah, and held it for three days, selling goods to those who would buy, feeding their horses in the store on the counter and running things their own way. Tiring of this they took what goods they wanted and set the store on fire, burning it down at a late hour in the night. They then fired into a residence adjacent to the store, as the women and children fled from the house shot at them, after which they fired the dwelling and burned it down, together with a stable and corn crib.

Impaled on a Broken Pitchfork.

OIL CITY, Oct. 19.-Mrs. Raymond Adams, of rench Creek, while hunting eggs in her barn yesterday, alid from a pile of corn fodder, which was stacked up to the height of eight feet. Standing against the fodder was a pitchfork, the handle of which was broken off, seaving a Jagged end. On this the lady was impalled, the broken handle pen-cirating her body at least one foot.

Accused of Forging Checks.

William W. Boag, a neatly dressed young man, son of Edward L. Bong, clerk of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, was taken to the Jefferson Market Pollee Court this morning by Detective-Sergeants Brunner and Tressare, upon a charge of forging checks in his father's name, for 430, 40, 50 and 510. Young Bong was, for a time, sin-sloyed in a Fourteenth street store. He was Tressanded back to Pollee Headquarters.

ALLIES FOR THE PRINTERS.

THE CENTRAL LABOR UNION TAKES HAND IN THE FIGHT.

Employees Ordered Out of a Shop Where Non-Union Work Was Done Sympathetic Pressmen to Receive Strike Money-Both Sides Still Claiming the Final Victory-Employers Said to Suffer.

At the regular meeting of the Printing Trades Section of the Central Labor Union last evening, it was decided to co-operate with Typographical Union No. 6, in the pres ent strike, and the support of the sixteen or ganizations composing the section was pledged. The card-office question was declared a principle in which the section is interested as much as the typographers. A committee, consisting of Delegates Isaac Wood, Albert Rockwell and John T. Burke, was authorized to represent the section.

The section represents about 15,000 men, and includes the Franklin Association of Pressmen and Feeders, Concord Labor Club, Pressmen and Feeders, Concord Labor Club, Knickerbocker Labor Club, Good-Will Association, Pressmen's Union No. 9, Pressmen's Feeders No. 9, Newsdealers and Stationers, Mailers and Stampers, Photo-Engravers, Empire Pressmen's Union No. 34, Advance Association, Stereotypers and Electrotypers, New York Stereotypers' Association, Hudson Association of Color Printers, Adams and Cylinder Press Printers' Association and Typographical Unions Nos. 6 and 7.

The first move of the committee was to order out the unionists employed at Jenkins & McCowan's, at the corner of Grand and Centre streets. This house has complied with all the laws of the union and is in good form. But it is doing the Scott presswork for the Century Company, whose men are on strike, About twenty men were ordered out at noon. On the door of the headquarters of the section, No. 250 Grand street, is this notice:

On the door of the headquarters of the section, No. 250 Grand street, is this notice:

All pressmen out of work one week sustaining Typographical Union No. 4 will the next day receive the sum allowed pressmen—understood to be for married men $12 and for single men $7. Of course only those recorded will be allowed pay and the money will be paid at the Readquarters of issue Wood, Pressident of Pressmen's Union No. 24.

President Wood stated that he is rapidly finding first-class places for the strikers, and thinks that when the employers are ready to capitulate their men will all have found employment elsewhere.

The Typothetæ and the striking compositors, pressmen and stereotypers made no overtures looking to a settlement of their difficulties this morning. At the rooms of the Typothetæ in Park Place, Librarian Pasko said that there was no truth in the report that the women had quit work in Trow's office. He received personal applications from five men and sent them to De Vinne's, Trow's and Little's offices. Two of the men were from Philadelphia and the others from Albany, Troy and Burlington, Vt. A dozen or more letters were received making inquiries about the work and the prespect for permanent situations.

At Pylangoras Hall, where the 800 striking "typos" congregate, Chairman Smith, of the Strike Committee, expressed the belief that the employers would yield in a short time, because their business was injured and urgent work was being sent to other cities. The employers, he said, would suffer greater financial loss if the strike was not settled within a week.

Eight non-union compositors are said to have waited on J. J. Little, their employer, and asked him for a three years' iron-clad contract for the purpose of protecting themselves from discharge in the event of a settlement with the union printers. Mr. Little is said to have reserved decision in the matter.

He Chased a Brondway Stage.

He Chused a Brondway Stage. A big yellow stage with gilded letters announcing that it ran from Broadway to the South Ferry wen bumping and rumbling up deserted Broadway a little after 10 o'clock last night. A fat old man little after 10 o'clock last night. A fat old man man trotted puffing out of the Post-Office and yelled for it to stop. The driver grimmed and kept his horses just about fifty yards ahead of the old boy, who began to pant out cuss words when he found that he could get no nearer. At Chambers street he gave up the chase, sat down on the curbstone and swore he'd have the driver discharged. "I have lots of fun that way every night," said the driver afterwards in a retrospective mood. "About six times a night on my trip up to the stables some chump is sure to chase himself out of a side street and holler for me. Why don't I plok 'em up? My work is over at 10 o'clock an' I ain't runnin opposition to the cars, see."
